WE ARE TO BE COUNTED IN LEAGUE UNTIL WE DECLINE THEIR COMPANY

Geneva, Dec. 4.—All independent nations of the world who desire out of the League of Nations will have to make a specific declaration to that effect or they will be taken in as members under a provision submitted to the league assembly by Argentina. The provision provides that all sovereign states shall be regarded as members of the league unless they voluntarily announce that they desire to abstain from membership. If such a motion prevails it will practically result in Germany becoming a member and the United States would have to notify the league if she did not desire membership.

DECEMBER 15TH IS LAST DAY TO PAY FEDERAL TAXES

"December 15th is the last day for the payment of the fourth installment of the income and excess profit taxes due this year. To avoid penalty, the tax must be in the offices of Collectors of Internal Revenue or branch offices by midnight of that date.

Inquiries reaching the Commissioner of Internal Revenue indicate a belief that taxpayers have ten days grace on this installment. Such a provision was contained in the 1917 Revenue Act, but was removed by the Revenue Act of 1918.

Payment of the fourth installment may be made in cash or by money order or check. The Bureau of Internal Revenue urges that whenever possible payment be made by check or money order. This method helps the taxpayer by saving him a trip to the Collector's office and avoids congestion at the cashier's window. Check or money order should be made payable to "Collector of Internal Revenue."

Bills will be sent to taxpayers, but failure to receive a bill does not relieve the taxpayer of his obligation to pay on time.

FOUR DEER AND ONE ELK ILLEGALLY KILLED THIS FAR

There is no law against the killing of a white deer or any other fresh of nature but there are a lot of hunters on the mountains who are ready to give a certain gentleman a ride on a rail for the killing of a white deer. The men on the drive at Jury Mill camp saw a white deer the first day of the season. Horns were not visible. Yesterday a white deer, presumably the same one was found back of the Shaffer camp, it having been killed by some reckless, lawless hunter. Game Warden Werts took charge of the carcass. It is all probability will be sent to the state museum. Four does and one elk have been illegally killed thus far and while this is away below the average it is still bad enough.

Over in the Rockton country they are having good luck. The lucky hunters thus far have been Ben Duff, Lawrence Laboy, Chesetr Brubaker, Cleat Hendrick, Mr. Hayes, Mr. Kirk and E. Denton.

Jury Mill camp brought down three yesterday morning. Two were gotten on the same drive out of three routed. Another drive was planned and the third deer caught in the flanking move.

Crystal Springs added another to their string yesterday making two. Yelly's Cellar got their first deer yesterday.

The Union Outing Club has two.

LANCASTER BAKERS REDUCE

LANCASTER, Dec. 4.—Bakers of this city at a meeting voted to reduce the price of bread to a loaf. They declared the reduction was made in the face of financial loss as their warehouses are stocked with high priced flour.

PUNXSUTAWNEY LAID SURELY IN LINE FOR HERO MEDAL

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Dec. 4.—William Smith, aged 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smith, of Punxsutawney, saved the life of his little brother, Richard, aged 7, yesterday morning when he jumped into Elk Run, which was a raging torrent from the rains, from the bridge at the head of Carter avenue, and after a hard struggle, managed to get the little fellow to safety.

A crowd of children were crossing the bridge and a little girl was walking in the center of the street car track, which passes over the bridge. One of the older boys became frightened at the child's danger and dashed through the crowd of children to save her. In doing so he bumped Richard Smith, knocking him from the bridge into the water.

There was considerable confusion for a moment, then some one yelled that Richard Smith was in the water. William heard the shout and without further premeditation or even removing his overcoat jumped from the bridge into the boiling torrent and after struggling with the child for several moments managed to get him to the bank.

William's only comment on the action was, "Gosh mother, he was harder 'n a log to lift."

There might be material for the Carnegie Hero Committee to work on in this case.

COST OF PANAMA CANAL MUST BE WELL CONSIDERED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—"Much is heard in the papers of the 'profits' of the Panama Canal," says the Republican Publicity Association, thru its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "In the last fiscal year it is stated that tolls collected exceeded expenses by $2,887,589. That is all very well, but it does not represent profit in any sense of the word. In every business establishment the first consideration is to earn enough money to pay interest on the investment, and the next is to put money into an amortization fund or else write off a certain amount for depreciation each year. After those items are cared for then it is time to think of profits, deducting, of course, the cost of operation. In reporting on the Canal no account whatever is taken of interest or amortization. If they were considered, the so-called fixed charges would be many times the receipts from tolls.

"The Canal was not built, however, as a money making institution, but rather as a better means of defense of the two coasts of the United States, and as an aid to American commerce and to that of the world. It is successful in those respects. In fact, it is not inconceivable that in the future the Canal may enable the rapid concentration of our fleet at a threatened point on one coast or the other and save the nation from disaster. Viewed in that light the Panama Canal venture is a big economic success. It is a mistake to lead the people to believe that a few million dollars on one side or the other of the ledger in the matter of tolls and operation costs amounts to anything. They should be led to look at the project in the light in which it was conceived, and in its relation to our economic welfare and national safety."

Price Fixing Must Be Fair To All

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 3.—"Getting down to fundamentals, the vital defect in a government price regulation scheme is that it attempts to limit the profits a dealer may make, without guaranteeing him against losses," is asserted in a statement issued today by the Republican Publicity Association, thru its president, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "There can be no sound price regulation that attempts to do one and not the other. Some temporary benefits may be realized, but in the long run one-sided price regulation will result in disaster.

"This was demonstrated centuries ago when a Roman emperor, possessed of almost despotic power, decreed a schedule of prices for commodities and services, with extreme penalties for violation. The result was cessation of a production and unprecedented scarcity, with consequent higher prices than before. If men were possessed of omnipotent wisdom a practical system of price fixing, might be possible but so long as individuals are limited in both wisdom and goodness, failure will attend the attempt to set aside the equalizing effect of the law of supply and demand.

"Recently we have had a modern illustration of this in the predicament of sugar dealers, who, under the price control system, were limited to an advance of one cent a pound on sugar sold at wholesale. That was apparently a sufficient advance to enable the wholesaler to cover expenses and make a reasonable profit. It is currently reported and is possibly true that some dealers made an unlawful profit by putting the sugar through one or more fictitious transfers, adding a cent a pound each time.

"But it appears that there were large numbers of wholesalers who tried to comply with the law and who made contracts for sugar to meet the future demands of their regular customers. They brought on an ascending market, and were limited to a profit of one cent per pound. Then came the slump. Wholesalers who had tried to protect their customers found themselves with sugar which would not sell even at the original purchase price. On the contrary the sugar found no buyers at a decline of many cents per pound. The wholesalers turned to government regulations in vain. In conjunction with the provisions which prevented them from making unreasonable profits, they could find no provision to guard them against unreasonable losses. To apply a common expression they were caught between the devil of a declining market and the deep sea of government control.

"The predicament of the sugar wholesalers is a subject that probably will not occasion worry to many minds—and yet it ought to receive more than a passing notice, for it emphasizes economic truths which the American people must not ignore if they hope for perpetuation of a government in which equality of opportunity is a fundamental. There are some people who condemn the recently enacted railroad bill which attempts to allow the railroads to earn a larger but very restricted and guarded income. Old prejudices cause them to look with disfavor upon anything that helps the railroads. The fact is that for many years the government has been limiting railroad earnings and profits and, if it is to deal fairly and to the best interests of the nation and its industries, must assume the responsibility of affording the roads an opportunity to make a reasonable profit above actual expenses.

"Unless that shall be done, the old experience of the Roman emperor will be repeated in this supposedly enlightened age. A railroad cannot be operated without profits any more than a horse can work without food."

WILL RECEIVE NOTICE OF CONGRESS OPENING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—President Wilson will receive the commission which will call with formal notification that Congress is in session it was said at the White House today. There is as yet no indication as to whether the President will deliver his message in person. He desires to do so but Dr. Grayson has advised against it.

THOUSANDS GREET MCSWINEY'S WIDOW ON ARRIVAL HERE

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—A welcome of impressive silence by a crowd of Sinn Fein sympathizers wearing mourning bands on their arms and carrying Sinn Fein flags greeted Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of the Lord Mayor of Cork as she landed today from the White Star Line Celtic. She left immediately in an automobile for St. Regis hotel. Mrs. MacSwiney was accompanied by her sister-in-law Mary MacSwiney and came to testify before the commission formed by the New York Nation, a weekly magazine, to investigate the Irish situation. In anticipation of trouble between Sinn Feiners and anti-Sinn Feiners on the White Star pier several hundred police were on hand. They kept the people on the side walk but some of them go through the line and crowd about the automobile. The silent welcome was displaced by cheering as the automobile started on its way.

LLOYD GEORGE IS MAKING AN EFFORT TO BRING PEACE

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Quiet negotiations are in progress between representatives of Premier Lloyd George and the Sinn Fein with the object of bringing about peace in Ireland. It was reported here today. Lloyd George is "feeling out" the Sinn Fein in an effort to ascertain whether it is possible to hold a conference with the leaders. So far it is reported that the Prime Minister has not actually met any of the rebel leaders and the whole affair is entirely unofficial. The quiet situation in Ireland during the last few days may be attributed to the fact that the Sinn Fein are awaiting the outcome of the "feeling out" process or to the fact that most of the rebel leaders have been rounded up in the government's drive on rebel organizations which was launched shortly after the assassination of the 16 British officers in Dublin. Great internment camps have been installed in various parts of Ireland and in them the Sinn Fein leaders will spend the Christmas holidays looking out the barred wire netting with sentries with fixed bayonets watching them.

FARMERS READY TO MAKE DRIVE ON CONGRESSMAN

By RALPH COUCH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Copyright 1920 by the United Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—More than 1,500,000 farmers banded together in the National Board of Farm Organizations will prepare for a drive on Congress to effect legislation to protect the consumer and the farmer from being victimized by the speculator and producers in food. President Charles Barrett, of the board announced today.

"Seven million farmers now are forced to sell their products at the lowest prices in history in proportion to the production costs," said Barrett "but 100,000,000 consumers are paying the highest prices in history for these small products. Billions of dollars in profit, is thus going into the pockets of the speculator who is the enemy."

At the first step in the drive for protective legislation the farmers, Barrett said, will organize a country wide public relations committee to coordinate the common aims of the farmers and consumer. The committee to be developed under the direction of the National Board of Farm Organization will be composed of representatives of the National Consumers' League and the labor group as well as the farmer's according to recent plans. The farmers' program for protective legislation begins with an amendment to the anti-trust laws to permit farmers co-operative societies to engage in interstate business. Through the co-operative societies the farmers could sell direct to the consumers. Under direction of the National Board attempts will be made to organize co-operative societies in all sections of the country as part of the campaign.

In addition the co-operative societies enable the farmer to become more efficient. "Yet," said Barrett, "more efficiency for farmers practically always means decrease in price at the same time. Increased average and harvest and a drop in price has been the experience of the farmers.

"Our only recourse therefore is to market more wisely and eliminate the middle man and speculator where possible by assuming the legitimate functions of the middle man and by encouraging the consumer to do like wise."

104 LOST RIGHT TO DRIVE AUTOS DURING THIS YEAR

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 3.—Up to December 1, the State Highway Department had revoked the automobile licenses of 104 Pennsylvania drivers one of whom was a woman. Registrar Benjamin G. Eynon of the Automobile Division declares that in 1921 it will be demanded of drivers of motor vehicles that they pay stricter attention to the provisions of the automobile laws.

"The general public," said Mr. Eynon, "and drivers in particular are well acquainted with the provisions of the automobile laws. It would seem to me to be no longer necessary merely to caution drivers. Farther methods will be adopted."

WORKERS WARM UP TO NECESSITIES FOR HARDER WORK

The Hospital Campaign goes merrily on. Solicitor Harry Shaw of Shaw Brothers reported yesterday $415 in cash and pledges made up of a number of names which will be published later on.

Every day brings assurances from the workers that they are "ready to go" on December 7th when the drive begins in earnest.

In yesterday's story the type got twisted and robbed Curwensville of her share of glory. The amount should have been $10,745. In addition we understand there was an additional $100 turned in direct to headquarters.

Carnegie gave $350,000,000 and Rockefeller has given nearly half a billion, for public uses. Would the Communists, on getting control of the country's wealth, do as much after they had distributed to the members of their party the called-for dividends?

Lawyers' fees amounting to $360,000 in the Marshall Field will case has recalled an old but repeatable story. An English duke stopped at a wayside inn for luncheon and was charged so much for eggs that he asked sarcastically: "Are hens scarce about here?" To which the innkeeper replied: "No, your Grace; hens are not scarce, but dukes are."

Writing editorially of "Japanese Danger," the Chicago Tribune remarks that "the Philippines are a menace to the United States." Even as far back as the time when we rushed into that big piece of "manifest destiny" there were sober persons inclined to predict that the Philippines would become the one vulnerable heel in the otherwise invincible American Achilles.

Dr. Dernberg complains that he was driven from America after the sinking of the Lusitania, "which I could not condemn without disloyalty to my country;" and Bernhardt writes that, in spite of the weakness displayed by so many of his countrymen during the war, the time is coming when "the German people will rise again" and when there will be "leaders to bring them to victory." Such is German "repentance."

AND NOW THE PIPE

The latest fashion notes from London include among "proper" Christmas gifts for ladies novelties in tobacco pipes.

Yes, pipes, p-i-p-e-s—the kind you smoke. No, not the kind YOU smoke, for the pipes described as in general use among the dainties of the British capital are dainty little things of French briar or meerschaum, the bowls inset with gold of delicate tracings, the stems banded with gems in various colorings. But tobacco pipes, nevertheless, and Dorothy Dingnam, Chicago newspaper writer, insists that the custom is quite popular in English drawing rooms where, speaking of gay and giddy young maids and matrons, she paints the picture:

Get your shock absorber ready for her pipe. It's actually a fact, they're smoking pipes in London. If she hasn't quite come to packing her little old joy-pipe with some well known brand before stretching out on the chaise longue, she's pretty sure to be puffing her cigarette in a jeweled holder. Very artful indeed, are these new cigarette holders, and getting pretty close home, too. You'll now find them offered for sale in all the larger towns even if you don't actually see them paraded on Main street.

Add while we're on this bold subject, let's hear the very worst of it! Martha Washington's adorably feminine little sewing table has been revamped into a boudoir smoking stand.

In our youth we confess to having viewed with awe the indulgence of a number of otherwise sweet old ladies in the soothing effects of a claypipe, loaded with black plug tobacco shaved down for the purpose, in the seclusion of the family kitchen, and we didn't like the thing, although the old ladies always assured us that they smoked to relieve the asthma, or the neuralgia, or the rheumatism, or some other ailment or imaginary. Our own idea is that they smoked because they liked it. But, in our young manhood the girl who smoked might just as well have run off with an actor—her reputation was ruined with the first puff of tobacco. And now they have come down to the place where they are hitting the pipe in public. It's really too bad. It has been annoying enough to have our sons wearing our socks and neckties, but to have our wives and daughters making off with our favorite pipes and raiding our tobacco jars in going to wreck the domestic peace of many a household. But, fellows, there's one ray of hope; maybe when they learn the difference between good and bad tobacco, they won't be so careless about their Christmas and birthday presents.

An Aerial Proposal

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

(Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union)

Effie ran back under an open stock shed, as though that frail shelter would protect her from the descent of what suggested to her some devouring monster of the air aimed straight for the spot. It was an airplane, and she knew this, but as it shot toward her a vivid terror overcame her. She shrank back and covered her face with her hands. Nothing happened. There had come a chugging and then a clumping sound outside and then silence. The danger was apparently over and she ventured to the edge of the shed and looked afieid.

The new presentment was one calculated to inspire relief and a sense of security. The airplane had landed not fifty feet away and was motionless and silent now. A young man in conventional flying costume had alighted and was busily engaged in tinkering about the engine of the plane. His agility, what of his face showed, a cheery whistle attracted Effie. She timidly advanced. The aviator noticed her, smiled pleasantly and suspended his work temporarily.

"Your farm, I guess?" he spoke in clear, mellow tones. "No one will hunt me off if I get on my way soon, eh?"

"Oh! Indeed not," replied Effie quickly. "We are all quite interested in airplanes. In fact my brother, who was overseas, did something in flying."

"Did he, now?" projected Dick Morley. "I must hunt him up."

"He is not at home just now," explained Effie, "but he would be glad to meet you, I know. Haven't we noticed your plane pass over several times lately?"

"Very likely," responded Dick. "You see, it's part of the experimental air service. I fly from Merrill to Brampton trying to establish a schedule for regular service later on. One of the valve rockers slipped out of true and I came down to repair it."

He resumed his work on the engine, restored his tools to a box aboard and got ready to resume his flight.

"And what are those?" inquired Effie as she noticed two small flags lying on the driver's seat.

"Wig-wags," answered Dick—"signal flags. I report at the fixed station we pass." He studied the pretty, glowing face before him with admiration and seemed reluctant to depart. He put in the time asking Effie about her brother and they parted at least acquaintances.

Every other day for a week the airplane crossed the sky directly over the Rawson place and about the same hour. The first day Dick waved his flag and Effie fluttered her handkerchief in return. Just after that on his out trip Dick dropped a pretty nosegay. The second trip succeeding he let loose a box of chocolate creams. "It is getting interesting and serious," Effie told herself with a conscious flush. Her brother returned that evening. The clever little plotter led him into telling of his experience in the war zone. He found an absorbed listener in his sister. In order to demonstrate the utility of the air signals he brought out two flags.

"You can keep those as souvenirs, sister," he said, and proceeded to teach Effie the code.

"I've heard your brother has come home, Miss Rawson," Dick said when next they met. "Tell him I am eager to meet him. By the way, why I stopped! It's a queer reason. I met a Miss Olive Randall at Midvale today."

"Oh! yes, she is a very dear friend," spoke Effie with animation.

"She told me so," returned Dick, "and she fancied it would be a wonderful thing to send you a letter by airplane. Here it is."

"But," spoke Effie, glancing at the extended hand, "there are two letters."

"Yes, one of them is from myself," explained Dick. He looked her closely in the eyes as he spoke, and Effie experienced a strange thrill, as though his ardent gaze expressed the partial suppression of some deep emotion. She flushed as she toyed with the two missives.

"You will please not read mine until I have resumed my flight," said Dick. "It was womanlike that Effie should open it first, after Dick had speeded on his way. The bloom upon her fair cheek was intensified as she did so. She tripped to the house in an apparently joyful mood. She was the vivid life of the family circle all that evening.

Once in her room, a happy, dreamy expression on her animated face, Effie took the two signal flags from their place over the mirror and practiced wig-wagging industriously for half an hour. She was out in the field next morning a long time before a speck in the distance gradually grew to the plainly distinguishable proportions of an airplane.

She was repeating over to herself the brief but telling contents of the letter Dick Morley had written to her. It was to the point, and it told her that he loved her, and asked if he would be welcome if he called upon her that evening.

Effie was all a flutter as she watched the airplane near slowly and come directly overhead. Then up went the flags, and out of the plane in prodigious proportion there came a shower of beautiful roses as she wig-wagged: "Y-a."

Something in This. Clothes make the man when people do not know the man. The folks who would not know a man when they see one are the very folks who do know clothes when they see them.—Mr. Chance.

Flavor for Wines. Greeks and Romans flavor their wines by steeping the leaves of violets and roses in the liquor until it acquires the odor.

Some surprising ones. A well-known person belonging to a crowded congregation of a church where in his younger days he had been captain, attended to the many changes that had taken place. He commented on the changes with that of a good game by, and remarked: "As one goes to this church there was not a man—no person in the gallery."

Next day, in a corner of the gallery which appeared in cap of a new newspaper, the statement was printed to have said: "It can't be in this church there was not a man—no person in the gallery!"—London Daily.

With Snow Flying, Summer Clothes For Fair Ones Appear in the Shops

BY "MARJORIE"
(Written for The United Press.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Fifth avenue windows of today look like lawn fetes or Eastern bazaars. Fluffy, crisp and cool organdies, embroidered nets and laces, sunshades and bathing suits, and leghorn and maline hats have routed the sterner fashion stuff of winter. The Palm Beach-Hot Springs crowd are casting eager eyes upon this torrid-zone raiment, and the stay-at-homes cast no less ardent orbs. For, be it known, it is this advance summer resort clothing that sets the style for northern spring and summer wear, and it is an open secret that manufacturers are already making spring and summer clothes along the very same lines indicated by the resort finery, which is now doing a thriving business for the retailers.

Flower effects in both color, pattern and line hold sway in many different realms of fashion. One house is showing a window of soft crepe silk skirts adorned with hand-blocked flowers that swirl about the hem. There is a white skirt bordered in gay black-eyed Susans. Another rhinced model of canary yellow crepe uses a motif of gorgeous nasturtiums. Plain colored silk skirts are selling very well to the southern trade especially modes of cornflower blue and rose pinks.

Other nobby skirts are developed

THE CONSTITUTION FIRST

State legislatures which hurriedly passed a 2.75 per cent beer bill after the passage of the 18th amendment were quite universally condemned and rightly so. States which still recognize the validity of licenses granted under such laws as the Brooks License Law and continue to grant licenses under a law which is directly the opposite of the federal law are deserving of the contempt of others. A judge today has a legal right to grant a Brooks license but the exercise of the licensee's privilege would conflict with the federal law so that a judge in granting a license is simply giving the licensee a state right to do a national wrong. There have been many judges who have denied that the Brooks law made it obligatory that they grant licenses under its provisions even before the passage of the 18th amendment. Since the passage of the amendment more have come to reason that it would be the height of nonsense to operate under a law directly in contrast to the spirit and text of the federal law. The Altoona Mirror, commenting on this same subject says:

"There is a judge in Tioga county who declares that it is unlawful to grant liquor licenses in this commonwealth. The truth seems to be on his side. The constitution of the United States is the supreme law. No state law that contravenes any of its provisions is effective. Prohibition is now a part of the constitution. It would seem a matter of wisdom and we imagine of law, for Pennsylvania judges to give prohibition the benefit of the doubt and to refuse all licenses next spring. In many instances a license nowadays is used as a cover for violations of the law. It is a well known fact that many a saloon is unable to withstand the temptation to do business in violation of law. Conditions are such that detection is extremely difficult. The courts of the state will help matters amazingly if they refuse future applications for license."

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

MRS. MOURNING DOVE.

"There are so many creatures who're cross, so many creatures who fight, so many creatures who care to scold rather than to praise," said Mrs. Mourning Dove. "I'm so glad my mate is not like that."

Mr. Mourning Dove cooed softly. "And I'm so glad my mate is not like that either." They sat closer together and their little voices could be heard softly talking in their field home.

"We are so happy together," said Mr. Mourning Dove. "We will never leave each other. We're like the Eagles. We care only for our one chosen mate." Mrs. Mourning Dove smiled and said in her soft, low voice: "Dear mate, how happy we are."

"I have a cheery story to tell you," said Mr. Mourning Dove.

Mrs. Mourning Dove sat very close to her mate and said in her soft, cooling voice: "Dear mate, I love you so. You are such a dear, dear mate. You make me so happy. You are always so kind and good and you always think everything I do is quite perfect. I can't help but do well when you think so well of me."

"I think we're all very apt to live up to what is expected of us."

"And the more just praise we get

and the more love we get the better we are.

"That isn't what spoils us. No, just praise and love doesn't spoil anyone."

"And so I just can't help but be happy, and please you when you always please me, and make me so happy."

"I am always so happy myself," said Mr. Mourning Dove. "And I am so delighted, too, that people are beginning to see that the greatest thing in the world is to enjoy birds rather than to kill them. I am so glad that people are seeing that little birds want to live as much as any other creatures."

"It rejoices my little dove heart that people are hunting animals and birds these days with cameras and not with guns. That is splendid."

"And I must tell you about the changes that have been happening lately. I must tell you about them, dear mate. They will make you happy, too."

"Happier than ever, you mean," said Mrs. Mourning Dove.

"You are such a wonderful companion," said Mr. Mourning Dove, as he looked lovingly at his mate. "I must tell you the news now."

Mr. Mourning Dove straightened his fawn-colored feathers and began.

"Ah, in the olden days they used to kill birds. I am sure of it as they say. But now they are so kind to us, we begin to see sadly, for often now you'll hear folks say that a dove coos sadly. Our grandfathers and grandmothers used to coo for a lost mate—a mate who had been killed by a man with a gun. That's how the sad note crept into the coo, for when one of our family loses a mate it is a sorrow they never get over. All through their lives their cooing is sad."

"You know how that is, dear mate. But now many people are being interested in us. They have told it about that we're trying to help. They've told how one of us will eat nine thousand weed seeds in a day which are harmful to the farmers. They've said that we try so hard to do good."

"And they have also asked what was one little morsel of wild pigeon meat compared to the good work we did. And we'd like to add something else."

"We'd like to say: 'Oh people, great big people, with your large guns which fire so loudly and which kill so quickly, we are doing all we can to work for the saving of crops. And in return won't you let us live? Won't you go without the little bites we make so our little hearts won't be broken?'"

"Please, please, people; do this for us, we, the Mourning Doves, or the Wild Pigeons as we're also known."

"But," Mr. Mourning Dove said, as he heard Mrs. Mourning Dove sigh and tremble a little with fear: "They're working for us now, they're working for us, that is the cheery news I have to tell you and it's true, too. They are going to protect the Mourning Doves."

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

Since the fires under the boilers in the Summit tannery are drawn, arrangements have been made with the Crescent Refractories company to sound the fire alarm from their plant. The same scale of blasts will be used, therefore if a fire in town should occur pay some attention to the blowing of the brick yard whistle.

Mrs. C. A. Korbabaugh left yesterday for the city of Rochester where she will spend the Christmas holidays with her son and his wife.

We are requested to announce that communion services will be held in the M. E. church on Sunday morning and also continued during the evening services if necessary.

James Spackman whose illness has been mentioned in the Curwensville column several times during the past three weeks, died at his farm home in Lawrence township, on Wednesday morning at 2:30 o'clock. A complication of diseases and his age, he being in his 79th year, was the direct cause of his death, although his demise was hardly unexpected by those who were in close touch with his illness at all times, his passing away caused a shadow of deep gloom among the friends and acquaintances of his neighborhood. Mr. Spackman had lived in Lawrence township about all of his life, and was one of quiet and peace, content within his family circle. He was honest and sincere in all of his dealings with his fellowman, and was highly esteemed and trusted by them. During his long and useful career here on earth, he followed lumbering in his younger days, and as he grew it becoming unprofitable, he turned his attention to farming. He was a Christian man in every sense of its meaning, and for a great many years was an associate member of the M. E. church in this place. His funeral will be held from his late home on Monday at 2 o'clock, his pastor Rev. J. C. Collins, officiating. Mr. Spackman is survived by an aged widow, two sons and one daughter. His remains will be interred in Oak Hill cemetery, alongside of two children who passed over into the great beyond some years ago.

Mrs. Mark Clute, of Tyrone, was circulating around among her Curwensville friends yesterday.

We were informed yesterday that the Locust street school building has never been wired, and that during some of these dark, gloomy days the rooms become so darkened that it is almost impossible for the pupils to work without putting an extra strain on their eyes. Just why this important piece of work has been neglected so long by the school board, our informant did not state but did say that he thought the building should be wired during the holidays when they would not be occupied. We think ourselves that the building should be lighted.

The Curwensville Motor Transit Co. will resume service over the state road on the following schedule:

The Legionnaires were mobilized for duty immediately following receipt of an appeal from Governor Shoup. A statement was issued declaring that the Legionnaires "will be used in no capacity except the maintenance of law and order in the community, and in any manner bearing upon the controversy between the railway company and its employees."

That this decision was adhered to is indicated in editorial comment by Denver newspapers which complimented the veterans on their usefulness. "The American Legion made it perfectly clear that it was out for the purpose of maintaining law and order," said one paper, while another asserted that "Denver owes him (the Legion man) an everlasting debt of gratitude."

A number of persons were killed and injured in riots during the strike.

MANY TO OBSERVE TUBERCULOSIS DAY

Addresses December 3 in the Schools and Sermons December 5 in Churches.

Harrisburg, Pa. — Tuberculosis Day in the schools on December 3 and Tuberculosis Day in the churches on December 5 will be generally observed throughout Pennsylvania. These days are in connection with the 1920 sale of Christmas Seals and Health Bonds, the formal sale of which begins November 20. The same days will be observed in other states.

In the schools teachers, principals, physicians and laymen will give talks on the nature and treatment of tuberculosis and how to prevent the disease. In some places it will be made the occasion for the distribution of Seals to school children — take to their families or to sell. In the churches on December 5 many pastors will devote all or part of a sermon to the question of health and particularly tuberculosis. In many Sunday schools a little time will likewise be given to presenting this subject. In some churches and Sunday Schools laymen and physicians will speak in addition to pastors and superintendents. Gifford Pinchot, State Commissioner of Forestry, who is Chairman of the State Christmas Seal Sale Committee, made this statement:

Many states, in connection with the 1920 sale of tuberculosis Christmas Seals and Health Bonds, will observe Friday, December 3, as tuberculosis day in the schools, and Sunday, December 5, as tuberculosis day in the churches. I should like to see Pennsylvania's schools and churches use these days for emphasizing the fact that the White Plague is still a serious menace.

The steady drop in the death rate from tuberculosis in Pennsylvania (from 150.2 per 100,000 population in 1900 to 117 in 1919) appears to bear a direct relation to the progress made in bringing to the public the fact that tuberculosis is a preventable disease.

The messages on the 1920 Seal — "Merry Christmas" and "Healthy New Year" — call for plenty of time in the fresh air and sunshine of the our doors, the eating of wholesome food and the taking of plenty of rest. These are the simple but effective remedies against tuberculosis. It will mean much for the public health if these simple lessons are brought to the attention of everybody on these two days.

BIG SALE OF HEALTH BONDS

A large advance sale of Health Bonds has already been made. Health Bonds run in denominations as follows: $5, $10, $25, $50, $100, $500 and $1000. Many persons and organizations that do not have use for a large number of Christmas Seals and want to help their local tuberculosis committee buy these bonds.

The Health Bond sale in Pennsylvania was opened on November 10 in Harrisburg when Governor Sprunt auctioned off three Bonds or the steps of the capitol. These $100 bonds sold for $75 each and the purchasers were E. J. Stackpole, of Harrisburg; Gifford Pinchot and the Governor.

The first $100 Bond was bought by Senator P. F. Joyce, of Luzerne.

Many Tuberculosis Christmas Seals have also been disposed of before the formal opening of the sale. In Schuylkill county the following organizations bought Seals in November: Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Loyal Order of Moose, Patriotic Order Sons of America, United Mine Workers of America, Order of Independent Americans, Masons, Order of Red Men, Daughters of Pocolontas, Merchants' Association, Rotary Club, Musicians' Union, Schuylkill County Motor Club and State Police.

STATE SEAL COMMITTEE

The Christmas Seal Sale Committee for Pennsylvania is composed of eighteen of the most prominent men and women of the state. They are:

Governor William Sprunt, Honorary Chairman; Gifford Pinchot, Chairman; C. M. Schwab, Bethlehem; David J. Davis, Scranton; Rabbi Max C. Currier, Erie; E. J. Stackpole, Harrisburg; Bishop M. J. Hoban, Scranton; Dr. O. N. Strawn, Altoona; Mrs. Frederick Schott, Philadelphia; S. Y. Ramage, Oil City; John A. McSwain, Harrisburg; W. Frothingham Kendrick, Philadelphia; James H. Maurer, Reading; W. W. Atterbury, Philadelphia; Dr. George L. Omwake, Collegeville; Dr. J. George Becht, Harrisburg; Miss Florence M. Dineart, Johnstown; and Mrs. Alvan M. Mink, Hazleton.

HEALTH CRUSADE IN SCHOOLS BIG HELP TO CHILDREN

The Modern Health Crusade, a system of practical health instruction which is being carried on in the schools of Pennsylvania by tuberculosis committees, is doing much to make healthier children in Pennsylvania. Many teachers quickly see a great improvement in the cleanliness and physical appearance of children after they start observing the simple health rules under the Crusade.

Last year there were over two hundred thousand children in the schools enrolled in the Crusade. An even larger number are Crusaders this year.

The Crusade is financed largely through Christmas Seals.

SAYS IT FIRST AND SAYS IT LAST

Carrie G. Harrel, 319 Nicholson St., Norfolk, Va., writes: "I'll tell anybody that Foley's Honey and Tar is all right. It did me all the good. I said it first and I'll say it last." Thousands of bottles of this reliable remedy were bought last year by disappointed mothers so as to be prepared to check coughs, colds and croup at the beginning. It acts almost instantly, cuts phlegm, soothes raw, inflamed membranes, stops tickling in throat.

PHONOGRAPHS AND RECORDS

Fine woodworking shows in Brunswick cabinets

WHILE most people buy The Brunswick because of its superior tone and its ability to play all records at their best, no one overlooks the beautiful cabinet work and finish.

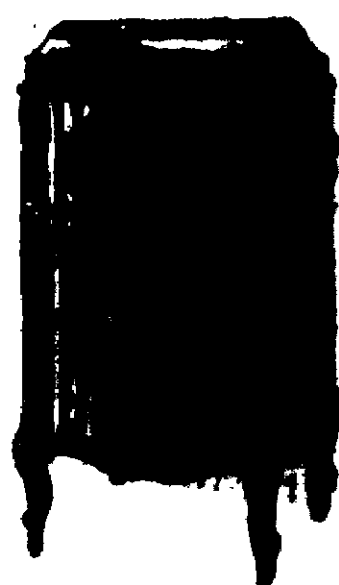

In this particular, it is natural that The Brunswick should be prepared, for the House of Brunswick has been noted for nearly a century for its craftsmanship in wood.

Brunswick makes its own cabinets — they are not bought outside. The Brunswick is built as a 100 per cent unit. So there is uniformity. Brunswick controls the entire process and every quality.

The Brunswick Method of Reproduction is a many-year development.

First it brought the Ufford, the first in-built, all-record reproducer — then the Brunswick Tone Amplifier.

In this finer instrument the amplifier is entirely of wood, like a violin, and tone waves can expand properly. Every acoustic law is observed.

Hear, then compare

The way to fully appreciate the superiority of The Brunswick is to hear it, then make comparison. Your ear will quickly decide in favor of The Brunswick.

All the hitherto lost tones are restored. Metallic sounds are absent. There is richness, fullness, completeness.

You'll appreciate how far in advance The Brunswick is; you'll admire its superior tone. The proof of the pudding is — Hearing. All we ask you to do is to investigate The Brunswick with your own ears.

A great welcome for Brunswick Records

A few times with Brunswick Records at a time when reproduction seems to have reached perfection. But you will quickly appreciate the betterment. We felt under all the wonderful advances of modern recording, that there was still a final development, one that would bring complete synchronization.

This outcome is remarkable. It brings hidden beauty, magnetic personality. It brings life into phonographic music that might otherwise be mechanical.

Each Brunswick Record is interpreted by a noted director or an accomplished artist technically trained in the art of recording.

Thus we bring that rare charm into Brunswick recordings which you will recognize instantly.

in combinations of silk and wool. One house is showing crepe made up with yokes and panellings of duvetyne. Black and white is most conspicuous in this line. Even white wash skirts glow with some fleck of color. Narrow banding of copper color edge the pockets and belt in many models.

Large, floppy hats in summery shades to match the rainbow tints of crosses, blues and skits abound. Ribbon hats seem most popular. Wide Roman stripe ribbon fashions many chapeaux and demands no additional trimming. These gay hats are worn with sport and white costumes. Rubberized silk is pressing to the fore as a hat fabric. One charming model of rose color trimmed with flowers of the same material is being shown.

The shiny effects given by glycerined feathers, ribbons, and shellaced braids are being resurrected for next season. Many of the most exclusive shops are selling hats of crepe taffeta, trimmed with huge bows of self-material. Organdie itself fashions many of the airiest hats. Flame color is very popular. All cloth fabrics are very good, by the way. A house which sells importations is asking a fabulous price for a demure poke bonnet fashioned of porcelain blue taffeta and trimmed with varicolored applique flowers of silk and wool.

Organdie has been found fit for a brand new fad. This is its use for little corsage bouquets. Rich evening gowns of stiff brocades and metallic cloths are given a wee ingenious fleck by the flowers of organdie at shoulder or bodice. The "sweet-girl-graduate" effect is continued by little puffed sleeve dresses with high-waisted, shirred bodices and full skirts. The baby sleeves are generally of organdie and are trimmed with evelet embroidery or beading.

Dame Fashion seems more fickle with her warm-weather dresses than any other part of her wardrobe. There are Princess Models with long-waisted bodices made from organdie or voile, and full skirts of a contrasting taffeta. There are tunic dresses of taffeta with Medici collars of organdie. There are beaded chiffons and georgettes, and duvetyne, the winter's favorite material, continues into this warm-weather stock. There are many jacket blouses of crepe trimmed with gay duvetyne collars and cuffs.

Dress, skirt and suit makers seem agreed on the slogan "Back to the Soil," for all the fashions show a noticeable drop. Nine inches above has come to be the standard height, in contrast to the winter vogue for twelve above.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts before Breakfast if your back hurts or bladder is troubling you

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull pain in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of flow, or attended by a sensation of smarting, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of lemons and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

ROSS & WOODS

Standard for the Christmas Tree

By DOROTHY PERKINS

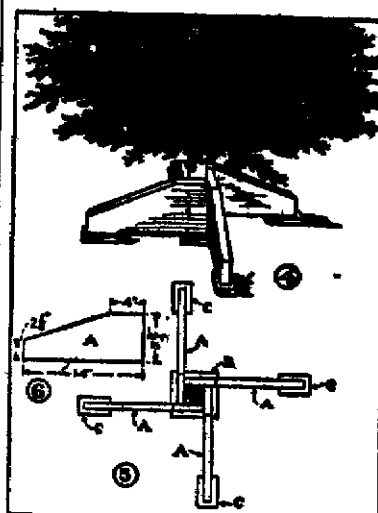

(Copyright by A. Neely Hall)

Don't let the preparation of a standard for the Christmas tree go until the last minute. In the illustrations are shown three good schemes for standards. The cross standard in Fig. 1 requires two pieces of 2 by 4, 18 or 20 inches long (A and B, Fig. 2). To cross these pieces with tops even as shown, it is necessary to halve them, that is, cut from the center of each a piece equal to the width of, and one-half the thickness of, the other piece, as shown in Fig. 3. Then they will fit into one another. Saw along the sides of the notches, then split out the wood between the saw cuts with a chisel. The hole for the tree should be at least 2 inches in diameter. If you haven't an expansion-bit that can be set to cut a hole of this diameter, bore a ring of small holes, and trim up to the 2-inch diameter with a chisel. To the under side of A and B, at the ends, nail the shoe-blocks C. It is not necessary to nail A to B, if you make them fit snugly.

One advantage the standard in Fig. 4 has over that in Fig. 1 is that it is not necessary to bore a hole for the tree trunk. Also, it is more pleasing in appearance. The plan view (Fig. 5) shows how the four arms A are fastened so as to enclose a pocket for the tree trunk. You will notice that each piece is fastened with nails driven through its face into the end of the adjoining member. A pattern for arms A is shown in Fig. 6. Boards 1/4 inch or 3/8 inch thick should be used. The center shoe B (Fig. 5), and the shoes C, should be cut of the right size to make projections of about 1/4 inch.

A Christmas tree will not dry out and drop its needles as quickly if stood in water, and Fig. 7 shows a scheme which I have found successful. For a water receptacle, get a wooden or iron scrub-pail (A, Fig. 8). Cut a square block to fit in the pail bottom (B), and through the center of this cut a round hole to receive the end of the tree trunk. Make a box of just the right size for the pail to fit in (C, Fig. 9). Perhaps you can find a box of the right size or one which will require but little alteration. Make a cover for the box out of two pieces of board of equal width, as shown at D (Fig. 10), and notch the center of the inner edge of each, so that the pieces will fit around the tree trunk. Provide screws or hooks and-eyes for fastening the cover boards to the box top. After setting the pail into the box, fill the square corners with sand to make the standard more solid. There will be no need of painting the standards in Figs. 1 and 7, if you dress them with crepe paper.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By MARY GARDNER

BILLIE'S SPRINGTIME.
"I'd like to tell my story," said Billie to the Fairy Wondrous Secrets. "Folks are always wondering what babies think about and what they are planning to do when they grow up—if they are planning to do anything or not. They wonder so much about us, and so I'd like to tell my story. I don't know about other babies. But I would like to tell about myself, if no one minds."

"I'd like to hear," said the Fairy Wondrous Secrets.
Now Billie was in a baby carriage which was out on the front porch of a little house in the country. Billie's mother was busy and so was Billie's daddy, but Billie, they knew, was quite safe in the carriage on the porch where the soft spring air was blowing.

No one was around but the Fairy Wondrous Secrets and if anyone had come around the Fairy Wondrous Secrets would have vanished quickly. "I'm really a little girl," Billie began, "though my name is something like a boy's name I believe. You see my great big daddy's name is Bill and my mother wanted to name me after him. She couldn't have my real name Billie, so she had every one call me that, so it's my daytime, every-day name, and my best, dress-up name is Mary Ann, or Marion, or some such fine name after my mother."

"I came to the world in December," said Billie. "You see, Fairy, I thought it would be fun to arrive in the world when everything was so exciting. Christmas was coming on and it was very gay and merry."
"I've had a nice winter, but now is the best time. I've known for it's springtime. And I'll tell you, Fairy Wondrous Secrets, I feel as though it were all my own springtime."

"I feel the soft, warm wind blow over my little pink cheeks which everyone admires so much and I smile and I croon and I make soft little ringing sounds like the trees do. And I look around to smile at the trees and the bushes too and to let them see my blue eyes. I ask them if they think my eyes look like the blue sky, for the bushes and the trees are always looking up at the sky so they should surely know.

"I Can See the Ducks."

"I can see the yellow forsythia upon the bushes, and how gay and lovely it is. The lilacs are in bud, and there are white blossoms on the bushes. Back of our house there are some waterfalls and they laugh and gurgle as they dash over the rocks something the way I laugh and gurgle."

"I believe it is their way of kicking with fun. I kick with fun when my mother puts me in the wash basin every morning. The wash basin, Fairy Wondrous Secrets, is my bathtub, and I splash and kick and laugh and have such a good time! I don't care if the water spills over the floor any more than I imagine the waterfalls care that they spill water over the rocks. They enjoy it! So do I!"

"I can see the ducks and hear them quack, quack. I hear that sometimes they lay seven eggs a day. The chickens and the hens and the roosters walk about and chatter, and one day, a lady passed and said 'Hello' to a chicken and the chicken got up from the ground most politely like a mannerly person would do I'm told."

"The pussy willows are out and the skunk-cabbage is in bloom. There are red flowers and yellow flowers and little star flowers. The trees are full of buds or little leaves or blossoms of different colors. There is a little turtle who is sunning himself by the brook nearby and who is an interesting creature, I have heard. He wears a shell over his back like I wear a little knitted jacket."

"At night I hear the crickets when I wake up for my bottle. And I believe these creatures all like the country, too. The chickens and the ducks say that in the cities they aren't wanted and they wouldn't be allowed to wander about so they wouldn't leave the country for anything."

THE DELICATE CHICKEN.

Chicken is a favorite meat with people the world over and no matter how served, it will eat, it is always popular.

Marinated Chicken.
Dress and cut up a chicken, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in flour, egg and crumbs, place in a well-greased dripping pan and bake in a hot oven, basting with one-third of a cupful of butter. Arrange on a platter and pour over two cupfuls of cream sauce.

Chicken Curry.—Wash and cut the chicken at the joints in pieces for serving. Cover with boiling water, add two tablespoonfuls of salt and a half teaspoonful of pepper. Simmer for half an hour or longer if not tender, drain, dredge with seasoned flour and brown lightly with a tablespoonful of butter. Fry one large onion in the same fat, mix one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of sugar and one tablespoonful of curry powder and brown. Add one cupful of water or stock, one cupful of tomato or one sour apple chopped with salt and pepper to taste. Pour this sauce over the chicken and simmer until tender. Add one cupful of hot cream and serve with boiled rice.

Roasted Chicken.—Bring to the boiling point two cupfuls of chicken stock from which the fat has been removed, add to it one tablespoonful of gelatin which has been soaked in four to five cupfuls of cold water. Fry one large onion in the same fat, mix one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of sugar and one tablespoonful of curry powder and brown. Add one cupful of water or stock, one cupful of tomato or one sour apple chopped with salt and pepper to taste. Pour this sauce over the chicken and simmer until tender. Add one cupful of hot cream and serve with boiled rice.

Chicken Pie.—Dress and cut up one chicken as for frying; cook until tender. Season when nearly cooked. Lay the pieces in a baking dish, add one pint of stock thickened with two tablespoonfuls of flour, and pour over the chicken. Add a slice of onion. Make a biscuit dough, cut out as a biscuit and cover the top of the dish of chicken. Add cream or rich milk and bake until the biscuits are brown. Serve from the baking dish.

TRADE IN CLEARFIELD

The Closer Home You Keep Your Dollar the Quicker It Will Get Back to You

Keep Your "Trade Dollars" at Home and You Will Have Made Dollars at Home to Keep.

ISN'T IT QUICKER TO TRAVEL A SHORT DISTANCE THAN, A LONG ONE? THE SAME IS TRUE OF MONEY.
READ THE FOLLOWING EXAMPLE:

Here's an illustration of what a single dollar will do in a week's time when kept in the home town:

A banker in a western city of less than 20,000 population marked a single dollar bill with the instruction that it should be kept in the city and each transaction in which the bill was concerned to be reorted to the bank, and the original dollar bill to be returned to the bank at the end of one week's time.

The dollar bill was passed out to a customer on Monday morning and by the end of the week it had been heard from exactly 128 times, each time figuring in a transaction among home people in their home town. It had paid butchers, grocers, dry goods merchants, hardware merchants, the landlord, the ice man, the laundry man, the milk man, the wash woman, and had served a dozen other useful purposes. One resident reported that the bill had passed through his hands on three different occasions during the week, each time to be passed on with its important mission of usefulness.

THIS ILLUSTRATION shows conclusively what a single dollar can do when kept at home.

It proved beyond the question of doubt the utter folly of taking or spending your money out of town.

Just think, dear reader, what it means when a single dollar will pay or help to pay 128 obligations in your home town in a single week; just think what it means if every dollar that is now carried out of our city was kept right here at home to help in its small way to pay the thousands of these obligations that now exist.

Think of the hundreds of accounts that are now carried on the books of the merchants and business men in all lines that could be wiped out in a single month.

Surely the town would be more prosperous and its citizens a happier lot, because WHATEVER MAKES FOR THE PROSPERITY OF THE COMMUNITY MAKES FOR THE HAPPINESS OF ITS CITIZENS.

Prosperity and happiness go hand in hand.

These merchants and others will save you both time and money. Try them. Keep your dollars at home.

LEGION'S DEBTS ARE REDUCED

Claims Against Organization Have Been Lowered $30,000 Per Month, Treasurer Announces.

The reduction of the indebtedness of the American Legion from $343,648 to $197,214 in five months, or at the rate of approximately $30,000 a month, has been announced by Robert H. Tyndall, national treasurer, at Indianapolis. His statement covers the indebtedness up to June 30.

The high mark of $343,648 was reached on January 31, and since then there has been a steady reduction of the deficit. In a previous announcement Mr. Tyndall declared that the Legion's old indebtedness of $257,000, borrowed last summer for preliminary organization work, had been paid in full.

The treasurer's books show that the indebtedness of $197,214 outstanding on June 30 is offset easily threefold by the assets of the American Legion. The deficits at the end of the first six months of the year are shown in the following table:

January 31, $343,648.13; February 29, $294,183.88; March 31, $256,983.81; April 30, $238,254.47; May 31, $240,650.01; June 30, $197,214.22.

AN INSIDE BATH MAKES YOU LOOK AND FEEL FRESH

Says a glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast keeps illness away.

Says a glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast keeps illness away.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, declaring this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowel do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels their previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the alimentary canal before eating more food.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who have bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to show the value of inside bathing.

AT-HOME DRESSES

Simple Effects Characterize the Models Now Offered.

Little One-Piece Gowns of Soft Wool or Silk Fabric Are Favored by Milady.

Never were the costumes designed for the afternoon of "the day" at home so alluring in unusual artistry in simple effects.

The modes for the afternoon, when friends arrive to chat informal how-dys over cups filled with impromptu-brewed beverage, are quite wonderful in simple adjustment and decoration that typify the best artistry. Many of the models prestage a permanency of respect for comfort, good health and beauty in the development of modes.

The little gowns for the afternoon at home are especially simple in the portrayal of a hostess' good taste in separating herself from any hint of being overdressed.

One model is a combination of skirt and jacket. The skirt is of black taffeta, quite plain, with exception of an apron of the same fabric, at the front, caught up in soft wattleau folds at the left side, and secured at the hip line in one soft, long loop and longer end of the same fabric.

The back of the skirt is scantily filled. The jacket is of white lace over fine black net, and it hangs straight to the hip line. The fronts form a low V, and attached to the edges and to the semicircular neck, in the back, is a wide Venice lace bertha, flowered on an almost transparent background.

Little black beads glisten on the delicate and sweeping neck line. The open front of the vestee is filled with six rows of soft lilac taffeta ribbon, scantily pulled into ruffles. The sleeves are elbow length, finished with narrow Venice lace. This model is declared one of the extremes in "dressiness" for the afternoon at home.

Little one-piece gowns of soft wool or silk fabric, daintily and plainly developed are especially in favor for milady's at home afternoon. Skirts and blouses, in odd or usual combination, are shown in great variety for these occasions.

One blouse has a front of red chiffon satin and attached sides and back of twill wool fabric. These sides are gathered at the waistline, and depend straight to the hip line. The plain back is similar. The sleeves are of the wool fabric, bell shaped at the wrist. Many of the blouses are quite plain, of lace, soft silk or wool—and others are fluff and frilly things, but not at all suggestive of elaboration.

CHIC HAT OF AUTUMN BROWN

Here is shown an appealing hat of autumn leaf brown velvet; it is trimmed with a feathery fancy of the same color.

THE LATEST PARIS COIFFURE

Hair Drawn Back Loosely From Forehead and Waved in Large Knot; Combs Used.

Fan-shaped coiffures are the fashion in Paris for evenings. This method of hairdressing is particularly suitable for the tall, slim figure. The hair is drawn back loosely from the forehead and waved in a large knot just above the nape of the neck.

From the knot there stands up a wide, high fan-like wave of hair, supported by invisible combs, which often reach four to six inches in height. The general effect is striking. Hair is now usually worn in its natural color, and the use of henna and other coloring matters is vanishing.

An effective hairdress is formed by a narrow band of brilliants just above the brow, which holds on the left-hand side a beautiful spray of black opreya drooping over the face.

Wool Flowers and Trimmings.
Fox fall, crocheted and embroidered wool trimming for hats will be more widely used than ever. Stiff geometric designs embroidered on felt, duvety and velvet in all colors, it is said by designers, will be fashionable. Wool embroidery on a net foundation if it is slightly raised, gives the effect of having been crocheted instead of worked through the material.

Boudoir Coat.
For the boudoir, to give added warmth, little silk coats are worn instead of sweaters. They are sometimes padded with cotton for warmth, but without they are so supple that they cling to the figure charmingly.

Try a want-ad.

A Letter From Santa Clause To the Good Little Folks in Your House

Every day this live long year I have been hard at it making toys for little boys, things for the kiddies, dolls for the girls.

And every time that I made something extra nice I have set it one side for you. Now that Christmas morning is only a few weeks away, - I would like to have you see what I have just for your own self.

Ask father or mother to bring you down to LEONARDSON'S, where I have put all the best of my Christmas things, so that they will be handy for Xmas eve.

Look them all over and write me a little letter, telling me just which things you like best and give your letter to father or mother to send to me, or mail it yourself in the mail box in Leonardson's toy department, so that I will know just what to bring you that will please you most.

And now, good-bye till Christmas morning.

Your best of friends,

SANTA CLAUSE.

There are still rumblings in Mexico, but we cannot reasonably expect that country to settle down all at once.

Dispatches from Great Britain, tell of an attempt that is being made to bar automobiles with left-hand drives on the other side.

About the only thing that is at pre-war levels is talk, and much of the political variety this fall is as cheap as ever.

Trade journals announcing next fall's styles in men's clothing say they are to be built on rather "sober" lines; but why rub it in?

Paper a Weed Killer.
In Brazil it has been found that weeds can be kept down in sugar plantations by covering the fields with paper.

WOODLAND

Woodland

The Lower Woodland Primary school is at present without a teacher, Miss Gulliver having resigned.

Mrs. M. A. Peters, while her husband is hunting, is spending the time with her daughter Mrs. Willis Eberts of Clearfield.

Mrs. Clara Stewart, of Clearfield, is visiting relatives here this week.

Edward Wior took a load of hunters out to the mountains on Tuesday and on the way home had a breakdown and so failed to reach home that evening thereby causing his relatives much uneasiness. He reports having seen both a deer and a bear. No report has come in from the Woodland hunters.

Jonathan Falconer is very ill at his home here.

Mrs. Reed Barger was a Clearfield visitor on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palmer attended the Sauer Kraut supper in the Lutheran church in Clearfield Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Richard Pitt was a Clearfield shopper on Wednesday.

Dr. William Feltman, of Elytown, was called here on account of the illness of his brother.

Yankee Peanut Brittle

You've been missing something if you haven't become one of the regular Saturday night takers of our Yankee Peanut Brittle. Pure cane sugar taffy with lots of those little sweet Spanish peanuts make a brittle well worth eating.

MCCARTY'S

Flowers For Sentiment

Particularly at holiday time does the giving of Flowers carry with them greater sentiment, greater contentment and greater joy. There is nothing else in nature that possesses the sentimental, thoughtful quality as Flowers do. Truly they have a language of their own.

Here you'll find blooms of first quality. Special deliveries will be made Xmas and New Year's mornings.
